GAS AND ELECTRICITY.

The Practicability of Mr. Edison's Invention Scientifically Discussed.

Scientific American.

The announcement that Mr. Edison has discovered a means for dividing the electric current indefinitely, thereby making it possible to use electricity for lighting small areas, has had a marvelous effect in bringing down the value in gas stocks. The stock of the chartered as company of London, for example, has been depreciated, in the market between five and ten million dollars, if we may trust a statement made before a recent meeting of the company. At an auction sale of gas stock in this city, October 18, shares of the New York Gaslight company, that on September 11 brought 91%, sold for 78%. Shares of the Manhattan company that sold for 200% in Septemtember went for 149%. Whether this enormous falling off in value in six weeks is to be charged entirely to the fear of electric edmpetition does not appear; but evidently the larger part of it is, for a similar decline is noticeable in other places. Is there any sufficient reason for it?

The manufacturers of gas say that there is none; that the electric light is simply a co-ordinate branch of illumination, and not nearly so dangerous a competitor as the petroleum light is. The electric light may answer and be economical for lighting large spaces from a single source; but even that is made doubtful by recent improvements in large gas burners, with which the increase in illumination, and not nearly so dangerous a competitor as the petroleum light is. The electric light may answer and be conomical for lighting large spaces from a single source; but even that is made doubtful by recent improvements in large gas burners, with which the increase in illuminating power is very much more rapid than the increase in the amount of gas consumed. The use of electricity for lighting rooms of moderate dimensions is declared impractical from the difficulty or impossibility of dividing the current is divided at all. As Professor Morton explained lately, when the intensity of the light is diminished by subdivision the percentage of light decreases enormously; few words will suffice to give an idea of it.

It is based on the well known fact that a wire may be heated by an electric current, the basis of many attempts to accomplish what Mr. Edison claims to have done. The reader may have seen the gas jets of the dome of the capitol at Washington lighted by similar means. Over each current is he electric light, the demand for gas is sure to increase enormously. By recent improvements in the processes of gas making, it has become possible to supply this most perfect fuel at rates which must rapidly do away with all other fuels for most domestic and other purposes; and it is quite possible that the gas that will be required for supplying power for the generation of electricity, supposing the use of electricity to extend as its advocates claim, will amply compensate for all that is likely to be withdrawn from public consumption by the advances of the new light. At all events the holders of gas stocks will do well not to sacrifice their property in consequence of this temporary and uncalled for flurry.

Cal-fornia, by a special act of congress will not choose her members of the next congress until September 3, the date o r next general election. Congressiona elections have already been held in eigh states namely, Oregon, Vermont, Maine Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio and West Virginia. In the other twenty-nine states elections will be held to-day; and as the third Vermont district made no choice in September, the second effort in that district puts the number of states in which ballots will be cast for congressmen to-day

The legislature of Connecticut will elect a senator in the place of Senator Barnum, democrat, who is making a brave ture will choose Senator Conover's suc cessor. Senator Eustis' successor will be chosen by the legislature to be elected to-day in Louisiana. Senator Oglesby's seat is at stake in Illinois, where one-half of the upper house holds over. The people of Kansas elect only the lower house to-day of the legislature that will name Senator Ingalls' successor. The Missouri legislature will have two seats in the United States senate to fill, one left vacant by the death of Lewis V. Bogy and the other now filled by General Cockerel. The new Nevada legislature will fill Senator Jones's seat, and the New Hamp shire legislature, Senator Wadleigh's. In New York Senator Conkling is on the anxious seat. Only the lower house of this legislature is chosen to-day. Pennsylvania elects twenty members of the upper house and the entire lower house of the legislature that will select Don Cameron's successor. The South Carolina legislature will put an end to Patterson' senatorial career. The legislature that Wisconsin elects to-day will pass upon the claims of Senator Howe to another term. The other legislatures chosen today will not elect United States senators. The democrats expect to secure senators from Connecticut, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri and South Carolina, with equal chances in Nevada, New York and Pennsylvania. The legislatures of Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas and North Carolina are only waiting for their appointed time of meeting to send four democrats to the senate. A democratic majority in that ody is already assured after March 4, 1879. The majority will be in the neghborhood

Of the members of the next house, 5 have been elected, leaving 234 to be elected to-day, and California's 4 in September, 1879. In the elections already held, the republicans have lost fourteen seats and the democrats one-in Colorado. Of the fourteen seats lost by the republicans, eight are clear democratic gains. Add these to the present democratic majority, and on top of this pile nine out of twelve southern seats that the democrats will assuredly gain, and we have the margin of advantage that the democrats have over the republicans in the northern elections that will be held to-day. A margin of thirty-three seats! We may lose two seats in New York, owing to the miserable feuds existing in that state; we may lose a seat in Connecticut, and posof customers to-day cause you to forget that sibly one in New Hampshire; but these your vote is needed for Hammond and losses will be more than offset by gains in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri

THE BENEVOLENT HOME. The Success of the Ladies in the Late

Fair.

A few days before our fair opened, the directors of the North Georgia Stock and Fair association met and voted the restaurant privileges upon the grounds, during the week, to the ladies of the Benevolent home, free of any charge whatever. Contain John free of any charge whatever. Captain John Milledge, the efficient and popular president of the home, at once went to work to make Milledge, the efficient and popular president of the home, at once went to work to make the enterprise a success. In his efforts, he received able assistance at the hands of a number of the leading ladies of our city, who have always manifested a warm feeling of friendship to this benevolent institution When the grounds were thrown open the first day of the fair week, the following ladies were found to be on hand: Mrs. W. H. Tuller, Mrs. C. C. Rhodes, Mrs. deGraffenried, Mrs. Julius Alexander, Mrs. Wm. M. Rickson, Mrs. Henry L. Wilson, Mrs. J. M. Ball, Mrs. Benj. Conley, Mrs. John F. Edwards, Mrs. Perino Brown, Mrs. A. G. Moore, Mrs. Albert Bellingrath, Mrs. J. M. Johnson, Mrs. Joe Morgan, Mrs. B. W. Frobel, Misses Tuller, Meyer, Johnson, Magnus, and others, whose names we failed to get. The ladies remained upon the grounds throughout the entire week, and did much to make the affair a success. The efforts of Captain Milledge and the above ladies, especially Mrs. W. H. Tuller, to give satisfaction were continuous and untiring. The affair was a grand success from beginning to end. We learn that about $600 was realized. All things considered, the ladies who were in charge of the affair deserve great praise for having raised this fine sum in one week. With Captain Milledge as president and the above ladies as supporters, the institution must meet with great success.

Their acquaintance began auspiciously, beautiful, amiable and interesting. Her loveliness excited the admiration of all who knew her, and it is not strange that after a few meetings the Aurora of love irradiated his skies, and he wandered in a blissful dream of happiness. His wooing progressed favorably, and might have terminated successfully, had he not told his love in a voice which sent a shudder through her frame, and produced a feeling of revulsion fatal to his hopes. He should not have appeared in the refined presence of his lady-love when laboring under the disadvantage of a bad cold, when he could have rid himself of itso easily by the use of Coussens' Compound Honey of Tar, a never failing remedy for Coughs, Colds and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Keep Guard.

A bad cold or cough, the most insidious of all the evils which afflict mankind, readily yields to Coussens' Compound of Honey of Tar, and a practical test of its virtues has never failed to convince the most skeptical that it is the best remedy ever offered the public for Coughs, Colds and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. The editor of one of our religious papers says that a friend of his, suffering with Asthma, informs him that he experienced more benefit from the use of Coussens' Compound Honey of Tar, than from all the various remedies he has tried If you have a bad cold or sough, remember that Coussens' Compound Honey of Tar will speedily relieve you.
